President’s Message

United States President Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered a series of 30 “fireside chats” to the American people between 1933 and 1944. These chats were delivered by radio. Using radio, Roosevelt was able to quell rumors and explain his reasons for social change. It was the first use of a new medium to develop intimate and direct communication between the President and the citizens of the United States.

Since Roosevelt, we’ve seen communication technology blossom into an elaborate, inter-related constellation of vehicles and methodologies. Almost everyone nowadays has access to a computer. Most carry a personal “smart” phone or tablet. People communicate using email and text messaging. Online they video conference, shop and order supplies, sell items, collaboratively create, peruse, and annotate documents, complete contracts, submit payments, and wirelessly check in and share things with friends and family.

Like Roosevelt’s innovative use of the radio in his day, the AADB can more innovatively use today’s technology to better serve its members and better facilitate effective professional regulation. The AADB has already taken steps that move in this direction, steps that move it toward paperless communication and that cut cost by teleconferencing in lieu of holding face-to-face meetings. Still, technology has changed so much and continues to change so rapidly that opportunity abounds.

I envision a future where AADB resources and responsiveness are so readily available that board members, administrators and attorneys immediately think of AADB as a source of help when problems arise. Whether on the website or some related social-media-like link, I envision a site where any AADB member could log in and share an issue, report a regulatory problem or ask a question. Members in other jurisdictions struggling with similar problems could contribute their perspectives, and someone from a board that has successfully dealt with the problem could respond with that board’s strategy and how it is working.

The Open Forum that reviews and discusses regulatory developments across the country has been popular with meeting attendees and has become a regular segment of AADB’s Annual Meeting. My vision would create a dynamic, ongoing electronic forum that would involve not only meeting attendees but, potentially, all members of AADB, including those who are wrestling with regulatory issues but do not have funding to attend our meetings. This ongoing open forum would essentially become a clearinghouse for information about developments in dental regulation across the country—a clearinghouse of information that could be monitored not only by interested members, but that would be monitored by AADB’s staff, Board of Directors and Advocacy Committee. It would provide a way for any member to report a new development in any jurisdiction and for him or her to know that the report would not be lost in bureaucratic channels, but would be noted by others including AADB leadership and members of the Advocacy Committee whose central concern is to remain abreast of current issues and, where appropriate, to develop position statements that advocate for public protection and effective regulatory policy.

The 131st AADB Annual Meeting will be held at the Hyatt Regency San Antonio, TX on October 7-8, 2014. The topic of this year’s meeting is Non-Traditional Dental Practice and will include a special workshop on Sleep Apnea and the Standard of Care conducted by Dr. George “Buck” Conard, WV, AADB past president. The meeting will also include presentations on Quality Control, Dental Group Practice and Corporately-Owned Dental Practice. The ever-popular Open Forum will also be on the program to give the General Assembly an opportunity to discuss issues facing their boards.

Nominations for the next AADB Third Vice-President will be voted upon during the meeting. Vision statements for the two candidates, Dr. Luis Fujimoto, NY and Dr. Maurice Miles, MD are located on the following pages of this issue of the Bulletin. A link to their CVs is also included in the statements.

There is still time to register for the Annual Meeting! Late fees will be waived for those who indicate their intention to attend. Registration and hotel information for the Annual Meeting can be found on the last pages of this issue of the Bulletin.

Please be sure to welcome our sponsors at the meeting. Their support helps to make our meetings possible.

Mark your calendars for the 2015 AADB Mid-Year Meeting which will be held at the ADA Headquarters on April 26-27 2015. The topic for this meeting is Impairment - Issues for Regulation

25th Edition of the Composite

The AADB 25th edition of the Composite is now available in the AADB online store. This valuable resource is used by dental boards, universities, state dental and hygiene societies and many other organizations. A complimentary copy was sent to all member state dental boards. This year’s edition was made possible by a generous donation from the American Dental Education Association.

We would like to thank those states that took the time to update their information. The data in the Composite is only as good as the information we receive.

Requests for the 26th edition were sent out in the summer. We would like to encourage all boards to update and return the information. Thank you for your assistance!

Comparatively speaking, the AADB will never be a large organization. Instead, its small size enables it to be agile and focused—focused on regulation and on serving the specific needs of its members. Though small, AADB can be highly effective. Its networks and services can become indispensable tools for members—tools that powerfully facilitate effective regulation. In his era, innovative use of radio helped Roosevelt build an intimate conduit to the country’s citizens. Today, innovative use of technology can help the AADB connect members and achieve its full potential as the singular, national voice advocating effective regulation for the dental professions.
Call for Committee Members

On behalf of the Executive Council, AADB appreciates the willingness of members to serve on its committees. Dr. Mina Paul, President-Elect will be making appointments to the 2014-2015 committees prior to the Annual Meeting.

Please review the attached list of AADB committees and let us know if you are interested in participating. If you are currently on a committee let us know if you would like to continue for another year.

Please respond to jtarrant@dentalboards.org indicating your preference by September 15th.

Thank you for your support of AADB through your committee service.

The AADB’s Assessment Services Program Needs You!

The American Association of Dental Boards operates the Assessment Services Program (ASP), a comprehensive program of review services designed to assist dental boards throughout the discipline process. The AADB is looking for AADB members, including specialists, with past dental board experience to serve as expert reviewers as the program expands to meet the needs of the boards.

AADB members who are interested in participating in the program and would like to be included in an advanced training session should forward their CVs and related expert witness or review experience documentation to the AADB central office by mail, FAX: 312.440.3525 or email: bmilton@dentalboards.org. These documents will be reviewed by the ASP committee and members will be selected to participate in a one day training session, Monday, October 6, 2014 right before the AADB 131st Annual Meeting in San Antonio.

Training sessions will only be able to accommodate a limited number of participants because of the material being covered. Please note that this training will be provided at no charge to participants, although participants will be required to underwrite their own costs for attending both the AADB Annual Meeting and the training session. Once involved in the program, those members choosing to participate in ASP will be compensated on a "per case" basis for their review services. Although the AADB will only be able to involve a limited number of participants in this training session, it is anticipated that expert assessors will continue to be added as the program grows. The new AADB Bylaws will be considered for adoption at the organization’s Annual Meeting, October 7-8, 2014 in San Antonio.

Revised Bylaws

The Bylaws Committee developed the new Bylaws then forwarded them to the Executive Council for endorsement. On August 7, 2014 the Executive Council endorsed the new Bylaws and had staff place them on the members-only section of the AADB website. In addition to placing them on the website, an introduction and a complete copy of the new Bylaws is being sent by email directly to all AADB members for whom the Association has a current email address.

Two statements accompanied the new Bylaws. Dr. Larry Kaye, Bylaws Committee Chair, provided an outline of major changes reflected in the new Bylaws. Dr. Luis Fujimoto, Finance Committee Chair, provides a statement verifying that the Finance Committee has analyzed the fiscal impact of the new Bylaws and has incorporated the result into the Association’s budget for 2014-15. This budget was approved by the General Assembly at its Mid-Year meeting in April of this year.

The new Bylaws document is the result of many hours of work and discussion by members of the Bylaws Committee and others. I believe it will improve the AADB, make the Association’s governing document easier to understand, make the organization more resilient, and create a more responsive and participative environment that recognizes and appropriately enfranchises all of the Association’s regulatory members. On behalf of the Executive Council, I would like to thank all the persons who have worked to develop new Bylaws for the AADB.

AADB Third Vice-President – Vision Statement

It has been my honor to be a part of the service to the American Association of Dental Boards (AADB) for the past four years. In order to further serve the AADB, I would like to contribute my experiences and leadership skills to serve as the AADB Third Vice-President. I believe I am well-qualified for this position with many evident records of working effectively among Executive Officers and the Executive Director in the AADB. Having chaired the Governance Work Group of the Strategic Planning Task Force of the AADB and being the current chair of the Finance Committee of the AADB, I am well-prepared for the position which will become the AADB Treasurer’s position. I have been a former chair of the New York State Board for Dentistry and the president of four local, regional, and national organizations. I am well-versed in organizational management, practical governance, strategic planning, promotion of education, and extensive aspects of governmental affairs. I bring a wealth of practical experience, knowledge, and broad cultural sensitivity. I am a dedicated and persevering hard-worker who takes pride in the given end product. I am a team-player who works effectively with others and facilitates their excellence with love and empathy. I believe in leading by example, inspiration, passion, and a broad vision.

The AADB serves as a national forum where dental boards meet to discuss issues such as licensing, discipline, regulation, and so forth to shape best practices for the protection of the public. We are the resource for dental boards to seek guidelines, assessment services, and professional development. Dentistry faces rapid changes from innovative technologies, emerging practice models, evolving healthcare legislation, and young generations of practitioners. The issues deriving from these changes are opportunities for the AADB to strengthen its role in assisting dental boards to fulfill their responsibilities in maintaining practice standards that are up-to-date and effective. I have benefited as a member of the AADB and have watched and learned from many visionaries’ great work. It is now my turn to give back and contribute what I can to the continuation of their achievement.

We are fortunate to have Mr. James Tarrant as the Executive Director who has given us opportunity not only to reassess our current status pertaining to our vision, mission, and operational strategies, but also to re-create our image, and if necessary to re-prioritize our efforts toward common goals and objectives. Professional development for our membership should continue to be one of our primary goals. We should embrace new ideas that would benefit both the membership and the public. We should strive for enhancing membership value, seeking corporate sponsorship, and to become the preeminent advisory source for cutting-edge technologies and regulations as well as position ourselves as the national professional assessment organization. We should not only plan for future fiscal health and long-term financial security, but also always re-evaluate our goals and objectives. Our strategy should include the advocacy through collaboration with other dental organizations and the enhanced communication with governmental agencies, political action groups, corporations, dental practitioners, and—most of all—our membership.

At the AADB, I have served as the committee member in the Program Committee and as the chair both of the Governance Work Group of the Strategic Planning Task Force and of the Finance Committee. I believe these experiences and my proven track record have prepared me for the Third Vice-President’s position. While being the chair of the Governance Work Group of the Strategic Planning Task Force, I led the group working on the AADB compliance with the DC Nonprofit Act. Through the diligent work of my group members, the end result was that the Assembly adopted the AADB Constitution (10/2013) at the 2013 AADB Annual Meeting which allowed the AADB to become compliant with the DC Nonprofit Act by January 1st, 2014. During that time, the governance charges derived from the 2013 AADB Strategic Plan inspired my contemplating the future focuses for the organization. As the chair for the Finance Committee, I led the committee members to fulfill most of the assigned charges including the 2014-2015 budget draft, comprehensive and periodic review of audited and unaudited financials, comprehensive review of guiding documents for fiscal, operational and human resources oversight, review of governance with fiscal implication, establishing fiscal systems and protocols for the operation of the Finance Committee, establishing fiscal systems and protocols for the proposal of new projects and assisted in space analysis.

In addition to my service to the AADB, my experiences in various organizations are nature-diverse and culture-diverse, ranging from academics, government relations, state legislation, and to political action. I have accomplished the teamwork through collaborating with other members in organizations such as the American Dental Association (ADA), the New York State Board of Dentistry (NYSBD), the North East Regional Board of Dental Examiners, the Northeastern Society of Periodontists, the Academy of Osseointegration (AO), the Joint Commission on National Dental Examinations, James Brister Society, American Friends for the Hebrew University, New York University College of Dentistry, and Noguchi Medical Research Institute. While I served as the chair of the Membership Committee for the AO, this committee became the largest, highly active, and most successful one in the AO history. Objective measures of my accomplishments were the rapid, continuous, and substantial growth of the membership as well as the retention of the membership of the AO during these economically-challenging years. My experiences in ten years as a regulator and two years as the chair at the NYSBD provide me with the perspective and vision that will well serve the membership in the always challenging arena of prospective and proposed legislation. I am fortunate to be an ADA Action Team Leader for the American Dental Political Action Committee and meet with members of Congress such as at the Washington Leadership Conference in Washington, DC. This experience continuously reminds me of the importance of active advocacy. As a regulator, I embraced the nationwide efforts to promote appropriate regulations that affect our present dental community, future generations in dentistry, and the public’s welfare.

If elected to be your Third Vice-President, I will devote myself to the AADB for advocating the collaboration with dental organizations and enhancing communication with governmental agencies, political action groups, corporations, dental practitioners, and—most of all—our membership. I will make myself available for listening to voices from all of you to enhance membership services. I will apply my previous experience to assist in increasing the membership value, such as through professional development and membership service, and promoting membership growth through recruitment and retention. I will also utilize my knowledge gained in the Finance Committee to enhance non-dues revenues, such as corporate sponsorship, and to strengthen fiscal responsibility for future fiscal health and long-term financial security. I will work with all officers together to re-examine our goals and objectives in the Strategic Plans, to identify future directions for the AADB, and to provide improved services to dental boards, the public welfare, and—most of all—our membership. My goal is to see that the AADB becomes the national professional assessment organization and the preeminent advisory source for cutting-edge technologies and regulations. Please consider my qualifications for your AADB Third Vice-President and vote for me. I promise to be accessible and a vocal advocate for your causes.

AADB Third Vice-President – Vision Statement

MAURICE MILES, D.D.S., MARYLAND

The AADB was founded by members who are dedicated and committed to the protection of the public and to the profession of Dentistry. There are numerous challenges facing dental boards regarding standards of practice and regulation. The mission of the AADB is to be the leader in facilitating solutions to protect the through protection of the public through helping to raise the standards of the dental profession. This mission is what I professionally and personally believe in and that my experiences and accomplishments in the state of Maryland Dental board has laid the foundation for further contributions on a national level through the AADB.

Since 2008, I have served on the Maryland State Dental Board and participated in the AADB. I have been serving my state by protecting the public and to ensure the highest standards of the profession. I am currently having the privilege to serve as President. My numerous leadership positions and experiences on the Board include: Chairman of the Application Committee, co-chair of the Anesthesia Committee, and chair of the Discipline Review Committee. I also serve on The Case Resolution Committee (CRC), a five-member committee that I have been a part of for the past two years. The CRC has the responsibility of holding hearings regarding practitioners cases for possible resolution and preventing them going to the full board.

It would be my honor to serve on the Executive Council of AADB in the capacity of the Third Vice President. I view the issues seen in my state as a microcosm of what may be occurring all over the country. As such I believe my leadership skills to be not only an asset to Maryland but I would like to be able to participate to a national consensus on the issues other states are facing through the AADB. Being a member of the AADB and attending meeting I am very aware of the importance of the organization. I view the AADB as the forum for the state Dental boards. It is the organization where member states can share information, network and get the tools needed to help their board protect the public and elevate dentistry to its highest level.

Within the last year as President elect, I lead the effort on behalf of the Maryland State Dental Board on standard of care legislation that was not included in the current board’s statute. I knew that this was an essential step, after realizing that the board’s hands were tied with discipline cases that resulted in patient injury or harm. Even when the care was clearly as a result of treatment below the acceptable standard of care, my state required a pattern of “practicing incompetently”. My first step was to address this deficiency with the board’s attorney general. I identified that there were deficiencies in the regulation and incompetence was difficult to prove and prosecute. I worked to develop a consensus of all stakeholders, including out state dental associations. I then helped to organize an expert witness-training program. On behalf of the board I approached a delegate to sponsor the bill and also engaged and educated other elected officials to gain support. The next steps were a series of hearings in the house and senate that led to the passing and signature by Governor O’Malley on May 5, 2014. This was the most important regulation passed in dentistry in Maryland in the past 20 years. In cases like this the AADB would serve as an information center and data base on a “how too”. Under my current leadership as President we are presently working on unauthorized practice and the corporate practice of dentistry. I know this is an issue for all states and I am looking to develop guidelines for best practice from the AADB member states. After this legislative session irrespective of the results in my state, I would like to bring AADB members together who have gained invaluable information to contribute to the other states who are dealing with this issue.

I see issues in the practice of dentistry not isolated to any individual state issues but as trends throughout the nation. My hope is that the AADB and our leadership will be strong collectively and so that we will be positioned to accomplish our goals and truly be a sum greater than the parts, while still allowing each state to still have their autonomy. I am willing to work hard not only to ensure the future of the AADB but also to encourage the growth and strength of the organization by reaching nonmember states and to increasing involvement from states that are only on paper.

I know leadership for any group is important requiring persons with the vision, ability to work across the lines that separate us. I possess the energy and commitment to work hard and I am seeking your support for AADB third vice-president. (For Dr. Miles’ complete CV please click here).
